Title: Saying Goodbye

Saying goodbye to friends is hard. My trip is only a couple days away. Don't get me wrong, I'm really getting excited about traveling to Europe. Last night, I printed out the full itinerary. I realized that I would be away from my friends and my cat Meeneee for a long time.

My friends and I had a lovely dinner together a couple nights ago. I was thinking about all the times we watched movies together, had coffees at Ned's Cafe and hung out. The best thing about traveling is seeing new places and meeting new people. The worst thing is missing the ones you care about.

We made some great memories over the last five years. I already miss them and I haven't even left yet.

What do you think? Send me a comment.

Bye for now.

Learning Points

Talking About the Past

We use the Simple Past tense to talk about the past events.

a particular time in the past	We arrived home at six o'clock.
continued for some time in the past	Everybody worked hard to complete the job.
several times in the past	Most weekends we stayed at home and played video games.

You use the Simple Past tense to talk about events that are finished.

Simple Past tense verbs can be regular or irregular.

Regular verbs end in -ed or -ied.

Irregular verbs change in different ways.

For questions in the past, you use the auxiliary did followed by the verb in the base form, like, "Did you ask ... ?"

Did is the past form of to do.

The Simple Past tense

The Simple Past talks about actions completed in the recent or distant past.

The auxiliary did is used when making negative statements or questions with all verbs in the past except for modal verbs and the verb 'to be' .

Look at the chart to review the Simple Past tense in its different forms:

Affirmative	Negative	Interrogative
Subject + verb + ed	Subject + did not + infinitive without to	Did + subject + infinitive without to
She realized that I would be away from my friends.	She did not realize that I would be away from my friends.	Did she realize that I would be away from my friends?
